So much interest has been manifested at the Dexter family reunions, in the history of the family ancestors, that the compilers decided to secure such additional data as was possible to add to what they had on hand and to publish a Genealogy of the Dexter family, together with mention of other families connected by marriage.

We do not expect this work is free from errors, but we have tried to have them as few as possible, and we would esteem it a favor if any of our readers will inform us of any errors that may come to their notice. We would be very glad to receive any additions to family records for use when occasion may offer.

In compiling this work we have made free use of public libraries, family Bibles, records of cities and towns, churches, antiquarian and genealogical societies, together with extended correspondence with scores of individuals, and every other source of information within our reach; and we wish at this time to thank all those who have contributed in any way to the success of this work.

In arranging this record we have given each person a serial number in Arabic figures, and the family number in Roman numerals.

The column of figures on the left margin of page is from beginning to end the general enumeration, and where they are followed by an asterisk [*] it shows that the record of family is found under that number. By this plan, to trace out any particular one, you have only to take the number at the head of chapter or paragraph and turn back to same number in the margin and you will there find the parentage, and the same process continued will take you back to the first generations.

Thomas Dexter

OF SAUGUS AND LYNN

Of the early life of Thomas Dexter, the first ancestor of this line of Dexters to arrive in this country, but little is known. He came either with Mr. Endicott in 1629 or in the fleet with Governor Winthrop in 1630. He brought with him three of his children at least, and several servants, but as there is no record of his wife, it is presumed that she died before they sailed from England. There is some reason to believe that they belonged in the neighborhood of Bristol, England, for in the years that followed he had considerable dealing with people who lived there. In 1640 he gave a mortgage of his 800-acre farm at Lynn to Humphrey Hooke, alderman of Bristol, Eng.

He had received a good education, and wrote a beautiful hand, as papers now in existence will show; was a man of great energy of character, public-spirited, and ever ready to contribute to the support of any enterprise he thought to be of interest to the colony; always independent, and fearless in the expression of his opinions. Such were the leading traits; but it must be admitted, says one writer, "that his energy of character bordered on stubbornness and his independence of thought on indiscretion and self-will."

In 1630, in the prime of life and with ample means, he settled on a farm of 800 acres in the town of Lynn, Mass. He had many servants, and was called "Farmer Dexter." The house was on the west side of the Saugus River, about where the iron works were afterward erected.

In 1633 he built a bridge over the Saugus River and stretched a weir across it, and a little later built a mill near by.

He was greatly interested in starting the iron works, which were the first to be built in this section of the country, getting the iron ore from the Cape. He interested English capital in the enterprise and became the general manager. Some years later, becoming convinced that the enterprise could not prove satisfactory, he withdrew.

He became a freeman in 1631, but soon lost the honor, for he was disfranchised on the 4th of March, 1633. He had many quarrels and many vexatious lawsuits. In 1631 he had a quarrel with Captain Endicott (afterward Governor), in which the Salem magistrate struck Mr. Dexter, who had him complained of in court at Boston. Mr. Endicott said in his defense: "I hear I am much complained of by Goodman Dexter for striking him. Understanding since it is not lawful for a justice of the peace to strike, but if you had seen the manner of his carriage with such daring of me, with arms akimbo, it would have provoked a very patient man. He has given out that if I had a purse he would make me empty it, and if he cannot have justice here, he will do wonders in England, and if he cannot prevail there, he will try it out with me here at blows. If it were lawful for me to try it out at blows and he a fit man for me to deal with, you would not hear me complain." The jury gave Mr. Dexter a verdict of £10.

In 1633 the court ordered Mr. Dexter to be set in the bilboes, disfranchised and fined £10 for speaking reproachful and seditious words against the government here established.

Mr. Dexter, having been insulted by Samuel Hutchinson, met him one day on the road, "and jumping from his horse bestowed about twenty blows on the head and shoulders of Hutchinson, to the no small danger or deray of his senses as well as sensibilities." These facts would indicate that Mr. Dexter was not a meek man.

In 1637 he and nine others obtained from the Plymouth Colony court a grant of the township of Sandwich. He went there and built the first grist mill. He did not remain there long, however, for in 1638, he had 350 acres assigned to him as one of the inhabitants of Lynn. He remained in Lynn until 1646. About this time he purchased two farms in Barnstable, one adjoining the mill-stream and afterwards occupied by his son William, and the other farm on the northeastern declivity of "Scorton Hill." His dwelling was situated on the north side of the old county road, and commanded an extensive prospect of the country for miles around. Here he lived a quieter life, yet could not keep entirely free from lawsuits, for in 1648 he had no less than six lawsuits in court, all decided in his favor.

THE INDIAN CHIEF, POGNANUM (BLACK WILL), SELLING THE LAND

His greatest lawsuit was with the inhabitants of Lynn over the ownership of the land where Nahant now is. This land Mr. Dexter bought of the Indian chief Pognamm, or "Black Will," paying for the same a suit of good clothes. This he fenced in and used it to pasture his cows. The title to this was disputed by the other inhabitants (1657) who, if his claim was denied, would share in the division of the land. The result was a defeat for him and his heirs, although they kept it in court over thirty-eight years.

In 1657 Mr. Dexter took the oath of fidelity. He was admitted freeman of Plymouth Colony on June 1, 1658. For the next eighteen years he lived a quiet, retired life on his farm. During the later years of his life he appears to have conveyed his mill and his large real estate in Sandwich to his son Thomas<sup>2</sup>, Jr., and his West Barnstable farm to his son William, retaining his Scorton Hill farm and his personal estate for his own use. He sold this last mentioned farm in 1673 to William Troope (Throope).

He then removed to Boston, that he might spend the remainder of his days with his daughter, who was the wife of Captain Oliver. He died there in 1677, and was buried in the Oliver tomb in King's Chapel burying-ground.

Taken all in all, he was one of the foremost men of his times. He had faults; and who has not? No attempt has been made in this to veil them. He was not one to hide his light under a bushel, and in estimating his character we must inquire what he did, not what he might have done. Who did more than Thomas Dexter to promote the interest of the infant colony at Lynn, with the building of the weir, the bridge, the mill and the great iron works? Who did more at Sandwich and at Barnstable, where he built bridges, mills and roads, improvements that the public took interest in? For these acts he is deserving credit, and they will forever embalm his memory.

As to religious matters, he was a member of the Puritan Church, yet tolerant and liberal in his views.

2

Thomas<sup>2</sup> Dexter, son of Thomas<sup>1</sup> Dexter, was born in England and came to this country with his father. In 1647 he was chosen constable for the town of Sandwich. This proves that he must have been born before the family came to America, as he must have been over twenty-four years of age when elected constable. In 1648 he kept the mill that his father built in 1640. In 1655 he was commissioned Ensign of a company of militia, which office he held many years, and was known as "Ensign Dexter." He served upon the jury very often between 1652 and 1659, and was elected surveyor of highways and collector of taxes 1675, and the record says he was an inn-keeper 1680. He did not have the fondness for lawsuits that his father had, but he did inherit some of his father's quarrels about line fences, but these he settled by adjustment. In one case when there was a dispute between the town of Sandwich and him, the matter was left to Mr. Thomas Prence, Mr. Thomas Hineckley and Mr. Constant Southworth to settle. These men were among the most prominent men in the colony. In 1663 Mr. Thomas Hineckley, Mr. Constant Southworth and he were a committee to settle the boundary between Sandwich and Plymouth. In 1655 he was, according to the usages of the times, entitled to the honor of being styled "Mister," and in the latter part of his life, being a large land-owner, was styled "Gentleman." He appears to have been a worthy man, enterprising, useful, a good neighbor and a good citizen. In addition to the land received from his father, he was granted 100 acres upland in Sandwich in 1667.

He married Elizabeth Vincent, 8 Nov., 1648, and they had five children, all being alive except Thomas<sup>2</sup> at the time of his death (which occurred 29 Dec., 1686), and are mentioned in the division of his property, which was as follows, viz.:

Agreement for division of property of late Thomas<sup>2</sup> Dexter, Gentleman, February 16, 1686-7, between Elizabeth Dexter, Daniel Allen of Swansea for his wife Mary, Jonathan Hallett of Yarmouth for his wife Abigail, and John Dexter: "The widow to have one-third part of all the movable estate and chattles, the mill excepted, also to enjoy ye westerly end of the dwelling house, both cellar and two lower rooms and chamber and garrett for the rest of her life; but if she sees fit to rent her part she is to let her son John Dexter or his heirs have the refusal of it at same price others would pay. She is also to have the corn, rye, wheat, butter and meat she now possesses; and her son John is to cut and carry home for her suitable and sufficient firewood while she dwells in Sandwich, to winter and summer two cows for her and to pay her £9 per annum while she lives. The son John to have the rest of estate both real and personal paying to his sister Elizabeth Dexter £55 (£5 down and balance in four years, but if she marries within three years the £50 is to be paid within one year after her marriage). To Jonathan Hallett £50, one half on next Michaelmas day, the rest within three years from date of agreement. To Daniel Allen £16 on or before 16 Feb., 1688-89. John is to pay all debts and receive all debts due the estate."

[Elizabeth Dexter, Jr., and Jonathan Hallett signed by marks. Witnesses were Stephen Skiff, James Percival, Wm. Bassett, June, 1687.]

NOTE.—This record may be of interest to some:

Witness our hands this 20 Sept., 1647, Edmund Freeman, Edward Dillingham, Wm. Wood, Gorg Kuot, Thomas Dexter, Thomas Tupper.

William<sup>2</sup> Dexter, son of Thomas<sup>1</sup> Dexter, was born in England, came to America with his father, and was in Barnstable in 1650. He lived on one of the two farms that his father bought. He took oath in Barnstable in 1657. He removed to Rochester about 1679 and died there in 1694. He was one of a party of thirty, which included such men as William Bradford, Kenelem Winslow, Thomas Hinckley and Rev. Samuel Arnold, who became the grantees of the town of Rochester. When he died he owned considerable land both in Barnstable and in Rochester which he gave to his children, as follows: James<sup>3</sup> Dexter, Thomas<sup>3</sup> Dexter and John<sup>3</sup> Dexter had the Rochester lands, while Stephen<sup>3</sup> Dexter, Philip<sup>3</sup> Dexter and Benjamin<sup>3</sup> Dexter had the Barnstable land. The children all went to Rochester except Philip, who removed to Falmouth, Mass., and Stephen, who remained in Barnstable and who was the only one of the name in the town in 1703.

William<sup>2</sup> married Sarah Vincent, July, 1653, and they had seven children, all born in Barnstable:

- 12 i Mary<sup>2</sup> Dexter, b. Jan., 1654; m. Moses Barlow. Removed to Rochester.
- 13+ ii Stephen<sup>2</sup> Dexter, b. May, 1657; m. Ann Saunders.

- 18* vii Benjamin<sup>2</sup> Dexter, b. 16 Feb., 1670; m. Sarah Arnold; d. 1784.

Mary<sup>2</sup> Dexter, daughter of Thomas<sup>1</sup> Dexter, was born in England and came to America with her father and settled in Lynn. She married (1) John Frend, October, 1639, and (2) Captain James Oliver, an eminent merchant of Boston. They had no family, but her father came to live with them, and was there in 1677 when he died, and Captain Oliver was one of the administrators of his estate.

Captain James was the son of Thomas and Ann Oliver, who came from England in 1632. Thomas, the father, was one of the ruling elders and of wide influence in the affairs of the new town. Captain James was admitted freeman 1640, was of the artillery company 1651, was Lieutenant 1653 and Captain 1656 and 1666; was selectman 1653, and for several years inspector of the port. He was Captain of first military company of Boston 1673, was appointed to command of the company in the Narragansett campaign, and was one of the few officers that passed safely through the "great swamp fight."

5

Frances<sup>2</sup> Dexter, daughter of Thomas<sup>1</sup> Dexter, born in England. It is not certainly known whether she came to America with her father or came later. She married Sergeant Richard Woodee,* Jr., son of Richard and Annie Woodee, in 1647, and they had eight children, born in Roxbury, Mass. The records say that the father and Samuel, Richard, Mary, Martha and Elizabeth were dismissed to Third Church, Boston, in 1673.

*This name is sometimes spelled Woodee.

John<sup>3</sup> Dexter, son of Thomas<sup>2</sup> [Thomas<sup>1</sup>] and Elizabeth [Vincent] Dexter, was born in Sandwich 1656. He was admitted freeman 1681. He was a member of militia in 1675, and while acting as guard was beaten by one Joseph Burge. Said Burge was fined £5, and 10s. was given to John.

He married 10 Nov., 1682, Mehitabel Hallett. She was the daughter of Andrew Hallett, Jr.,* of Yarmouth, who was one of the wealthiest men in that place.

In 1686 he sold to his brother-in-law, Jonathan Hallett, a negro slave called "Harry," aged 29 years, for £20.

Four children, born in Portsmouth, R. I.:

- 36 i Elizabeth<sup>4</sup> Dexter, b. 1 Nov., 1683.

Abigail<sup>3</sup> Dexter, daughter of Thomas<sup>2</sup> [Thomas<sup>1</sup>] and Elizabeth [Vincent] Dexter, was born 12 June, 1663, at Sandwich, Mass. She married Jonathan Hallett (on 30 June, 1683-4), the son of Andrew Hallett, Jr., of Yarmouth. After the death of his father he removed to Yarmouth, and was the wealthiest man in that town. He was constable in 1684.

*Andrew Hallett, Jr., the son of Andrew Hallett of Weymouth, England, came over in 1636 at the age of 28. His father came over at an earlier date and was known as Schoolmaster Hallett.

Andrew, Jr., settled in Lynn, moving to Yarmouth in 1637. Admitted as freeman before 1640. In 1642 he bought of Giles Hopkins the first house known to have been built by white men in town, also ten acres of land. He afterward purchased other lots until he owned 300 acres. He had rights in the common land for 500 acres more; he also had land in Barnstable.

He was a shrewd calculator and good business man, and before his death his taxes amounted to one-twentieth of the whole tax of the town. He died in 1684, aged 76 years, and by his will, after providing for his wife, Annie (who was a daughter of Anthony Besse of Sandwich), remembered his daughters and grandchildren liberally, and giving to his oldest son, Jonathan (who married Abigail Dexter) the little calves' pasture, so called, as a token of his right as oldest son. His sons John and Jonathan to divide the rest of the property peacefully between them. His estate was valued at £1180. Much of his landed estate remained in the family for years.

They lived in the same house with his mother until her death in 1695, when he built a new house. He was not an educated man, but succeeded in getting together considerable property for those times. He died 14 Jan., 1716-17, aged 69; his wife died 12 Sept., 1715, aged 52, and they were both buried in the old burying-ground at Yarmouth.

They had nine children, all born at Yarmouth:

- 43 iv Deacon Jonathan<sup>4</sup> Hallett, b. 1693; d. 1783; m. 1719, Desire Howes; eleven children.

13

Stephen<sup>3</sup> Dexter, son of William<sup>2</sup> [Thomas<sup>1</sup>] and Sarah [Vincent] Dexter, was born in Barnstable, Mass., May, 1657, where he spent his whole life. He married Ann Saunders on 27 April, 1696, and they made their home on the farm which was originally his grandfather Thomas', at Dexter lane, West Barnstable. In 1703 he was the only one of the name left in Barnstable. He died in 1729, his will being probated 17 March, 1729-30.

They had ten children:

- 49* i Mary<sup>4</sup> Dexter, b. 24 Aug., 1696; m. Samuel Chead, 5 March, 1717.

NOTE.—Cornelius and Molly lived in a two-story house on east side of Dexter lane, opposite the mill pond.

14

Philip<sup>2</sup> Dexter, son of William<sup>2</sup> [Thomas<sup>1</sup>] and Sarah [Vincent] Dexter, was born at Barnstable, Mass., September, 1659. He spent his early days in Barnstable, but at the time of his marriage to Alice Allen, he moved to Falmouth, where he spent the remainder of his life. He died 1741, aged 82. He was miller there many years. At one time he was complained of for charging too high, but as he was the only miller, the people were dependent upon him. A committee was sent to consult with him, but the record does not reveal the result, but at a later period he was paid by the town £30 for his part of the mill and the land that the pond covered, so it may be that the matter was settled in that way. In 1712 he and Thomas Bowerman were appointed to lay out land of the "New Purchase" into lots, etc. He was selectman, and also town clerk.

They had nine children:

- 59 i Joseph<sup>4</sup> Dexter, b. —; m. 1756. He had pew number 10 in the new church at Falmouth.

He went to Rochester with his father, where he married Elizabeth Tobey. They had three children born in Rochester. In 1712, after the death of the father, Mary, the daughter, being a minor over 14, chose Jabez Dexter (a kinsman) for guardian, and Deborah chose Samuel Hunt for her guardian.

16

Thomas<sup>2</sup> Dexter, son of William<sup>2</sup> [Thomas<sup>1</sup>] and Sarah [Vincent] Dexter, was born at Barnstable, Mass., 1665; died 1744. He married (1) Mary Miller, 17 July, 1695, and had by her one son; married (2) Sarah C. March in 1702-3. The son must have died before his father, for he is not mentioned in his will, and he leaves most of his property to Constant Dexter, who had been brought up by him. He gave land to Mary Sherman, wife of William Sherman, who was a daughter of his brother John. He also gave land to Rose, or Rest, Dexter, daughter of his brother John. He gave £3 each to the four daughters of his brother John and to the two daughters of his brother Benjamin. He gave £5 to the church, and all the balance to Constant Dexter, son of his brother Benjamin.

Copy of the will of John<sup>3</sup> Dexter, 9 June, 1744:

1st. I give to Sarah, my dearly beloved wife, the whole improvement and income of my whole estate, both within doors and without, so long as she shall be my widow, and in case of her intermarriage to have her thirds of the income of my lands for one year, and this bequest not to hinder her and her son Gershom agreeing for her maintenance if they can agree otherwise.

I appoint my son Gershom sole executor, and order him to pay all my just debts out of my movable estate in case there be sufficient to do it with. After the legacies hereafter mentioned are paid and in case there are not sufficient to pay legacies and debts, he shall pay them out of my lands which I shall leave.

I give all my real estate, consisting of house and lands, to my sons, Gershom and John, to be equally divided between them after my wife shall have done with it, and it is to be to them and their heirs forever. And in case they shall not divide it in their lifetime, it shall be in the power of their heirs or either of their heirs to divide, and in case either of my sons shall see cause to sell in the lifetime of the other, he shall first give the offer to his brother, who shall have liberty of buying by giving as much as another will. And this I give them on condition that they shall pay out the legacies that I order them to pay to their sisters.

I give to my daughter Mary fifteen acres of land out of my grants, to be hers forever, taken up as the grants will allow of.

I give to my three daughters, Hannah, Dinah and Mary, £5 each, to be paid in bills or movables within one year.

I give to my daughter Rest £20 in bills of good credit, old tenor, and a liberty in my dwelling-house during her single life, with firewood and such conveniences for her as she and her mother may order.

This is my last will.

And that the same may be secured to these I shall give it unto, my Will is that all my other children and heirs in Law of my S<sup>d</sup> Wife deceased, shall as they come to lawful age and s<sup>d</sup> James or his heirs shall demand it, give him and them a quit-claim of all their rights thereunto: and upon their, or either of their refusal so to do, my will is that sixty pounds worth of that estate which I shall in this my will give to any of them so refusing to do it shall be taken out of his or her part and portion of my estate and be given to my said son James and ye same to be to him and his heirs forever.

Item: My will is that my two sons Benjamin and Josiah shall have equally divided between them or their heirs, and ye same to be to them and their heirs and assigns forever, all the lands where they live, being what I bought of John Mumford, containing their homesteads to be equally divided between them as they may agree or if they cannot then by two men equally chosen by them or their heirs, and also the land adjoining which I have laid out there in my own right, and each to have his half where his house stands.

Item:—My Will is that my son Samuel shall have three-score acres of my granted lands, wch are not laid out, but granted to be laid out, adjoining to my homestead as may best suit him, so as to take in the land he hath broken up beginning about ten Rod above the Mill-dam and so as to include the s<sup>d</sup> three-score acres with the allowance, and also I give him the one-third part of ye mills and appurtenances, ye same to be him & his heirs forever.

Item:—I give to my son Ephraim and ye same to be to him & his heirs and assigns forever, also ye like quantity of sixty acres of my granted lands which is not taken up, but already granted to be taken, on the westerly side of Samuel's grants adjoining to my homestead with the one-third part of ye mills & appurtenances.

Item:—My Will is that my son Seth shall have my homestead that I now live on, and the same to be to him and his heirs and assigns forever, by the s<sup>d</sup> homestead I mean to contain what lands I have already laid out and recorded where I now live, with ye housing on the same, not to include the Mill course.

Item:—My Will is that my son Constant shall have twenty acres out of my eighty acre grant, to be taken up as the grant will allow of, but not to interfere with any of his brethren in laying out the same so as to deprive them of their choice and ye s<sup>d</sup> twenty acres to be to him his heirs and assigns forever.

Item:—My Will is that my daughter Sarah shall have out of my movable estate eighty pounds paid her out of my movable estate by my executors over and above what I have already given her, ye same to be to her and her heirs forever.

Also my will that whatsoever other lands I have or do own, be ye same whatsoever or wheresoever that I have not in this my Will given away shall be equally divided among all my sons to be to them and their heirs forever.

In case my daughter shall lose her husband and shall marry and have other children, my will is that each child shall have £13 6s. 8d., to be paid to them on their arrival at age 21 years by the children of my daughter by Perry, the male children paying two-thirds and the female children paying one-third.

Samuel<sup>4</sup> Dexter, son of Benjamin<sup>2</sup> [William<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>] and Sarah [Arnold] Dexter, was born in Rochester, Mass., 14 Dec., 1708. He spent his early life in that place, and on 18 May, 1732, was married to Mary Clark by Rev. Timothy Ruggles. He remained there until after 1734, for two of his children, Joseph and Samuel, were born there. He moved from there to Hardwick, and then in 1736 he was at Athol, where his son Ichabod was born; but he must have returned to Hardwick, for the records give the births of the remaining children at Hardwick.

While Samuel was not one of the first grantees of Athol, he was one of the very early settlers, coming there the beginning of the second year. The five families that came the first year, September, 1735, were Richard Morton, Ephraim Smith, Samuel Morton, John Smeed and Joseph Lord. Those that came the second year, spring of 1736, were Aaron Smith, Samuel Dexter, Noah Morton, Robert Young, Robert Marble, Nathaniel and Eleazer Graves and William, John, James and Robert Oliver.

The Indians troubled the settlers so much that many of them left this locality for a more secure place, and it may be that Samuel removed to Hardwick and remained there from 1740 to 1753, but in the deeds of land which he sold in 1743, 1745, 1753 and 1759, his residence is given as Paquoag (Athol). He was called husbandman, and must have been a man of considerable property for those times.

In September, 1743, he sold fifty acres of land on West Hill to Jason Babcock. (This is the Babcock who was captured by the Indians in 1746 and carried off to Canada, but who was afterwards redeemed and returned to Athol.) In October, 1743, he sold house lot No. 7, West Hill, to Thomas Hunter. In 1744 he bought of Jason Babcock two lots in Athol, being Nos. 6 and 14. In May, 1745, he sold thirty acres (lot No. 63, second division) near river to Ebenezer Davis. In March, 1753, he sold to his oldest son, Joseph (then of Hardwick), two lots, Nos. 14 and 15, in Athol. In 1755 he sold lot 53, a tract of land on both sides of Tully Brook, to Abraham Nutt. In 1759 he sold three tracts of land in Athol to his son, Ichabod Dexter. In 1775 was a member of the Committee of Correspondence.

DAVID DEXTER,
94 yrs. 2 mos. 17 days.

The following is a sketch furnished by his granddaughter:

David Dexter, born in Rochester, Mass., June 17, 1760, enlisted in June, 1776, being then a boy of sixteen, to serve as private in the Revolutionary Army, under Captain Turner, his Colonel being ——— Marshall. He took the place of an older brother, who had a family and who was drafted.

He married Mary Butler, born in Tisbury, Martha's Vineyard, July 15, 1755. She was the eldest child of Thomas and Rebecca (Butler) Butler. The date of this marriage was April 11, 1780, during which year he served six months more in the army under Captain Lee and Colonel Groaton.

He was present at the hanging of Andre at Tappan-on-the-Hudson, October 2, 1780. Avery J.<sup>d</sup> Dexter remembered hearing his grandfather tell of the execution, and that Washington was present and cried like a child. He said: "Grandfather would tell it over while the tears would run down his cheek."

David Dexter, with his younger brother Jonathan, born in Rochester, Mass., Sept. 7, 1762, came to Vermont in 1783, and lived on Newfane Hill, while making a home in the wilderness of what was then Wardsboro, afterward Dover. Here David's first child Charles was born, October 3, 1783.

When the log house was ready the family was moved in, following blazed trees to the new home.

Jonathan, who married Hannah Church of Newfane, cleared up the adjoining farm, afterwards known as the Colonel Woods farm. There is no record of this marriage, but the first child, Reuben, was born October 9, 1788. In an old burial-place in Wardsboro, may be seen this inscription: "Mrs. Hannah, wife of Mr. Jonathan Dexter, died May 29, 1800, in the 38th year of her age."

David, in the early days, used to come out to Newfane Hill and work for Captain Kenny, taking his pay in corn, which was ground in a mill near by, the foundation stones of which may be seen near the outlet of Kenny Pond. Taking the bag of meal on his back, David would retrace his way through the forest by marked trees.

Ruth Dexter, a sister of David and Jonathan, came later from "Old Rochester" and lived some years with her brother Jonathan in the south part of Wardsboro. She was born Feb. 22, 1758, in Rochester, Mass., and died in Wardsboro.

169

Ichabod<sup>d</sup> Dexter, son of Samuel<sup>l</sup> [Benjamin, William<sup>s</sup>, Thomas<sup>l</sup>] and Mary [Clark] Dexter; was born in Athol, 24 June, 1737. He passed his early years in Athol and Hardwick. He learned the blacksmith trade, and according to tradition was in the French and Indian War, and was at the taking of old Fort Ticonderoga, when all the men in line on both sides of him were shot down, and his clothes were riddled with bullets, but none happened to draw blood. He and his brother Samuel were taken prisoners by the Indians, at one time, who started with them for Canada, but as they camped one night the brothers awoke and finding their captors were all asleep, they sent the whole company to the "happy hunting grounds" and started through the wilderness for home. They found it almost impossible to travel through the woods or to obtain food, and were obliged to kill and eat a dog which was with them. They finally reached home, but thoroughly used up and half starved.

He was elected selectman of Athol in 1768, and at the alarm at Lexington he led a company of minutemen from that town. He was afterward Captain of a company in the field. He moved to Hardwick in 1780, and was selectman there in 1781-'82, 1785; elected Representative, 1782-1783.

In 1752 the General Court granted 325 acres of land on the west line of Athol (Pequoig) to Rev. Benjamin Ruggles of Middleboro, Mass. This grant became in March, 1762, a part of Athol, but in 1783 was in the part set off to Orange.

Ezekiel Wallingford is said to have located as early as 1747, and was not long afterward killed by the Indians. Mr. Dexter bought the right to Wallingford's land and lived upon it many years. He afterwards returned to Hardwick. He also bought a farm of fifty acres of Jason Babeock, which was set off with lot No. 7 on West Hill. He also owned a farm in Orange called the Battle Farm. He was an active promoter of Shays' Rebellion in 1786, but afterward made his peace with the government. He was a man of ability and courage, as a record of his career shows.

He married Abigail ———, and had seven children. His wife was born 21 July, 1742, and died 7 April, 1797. He died of apoplexy 13 Feb., 1797. His estate was administrated by his sons, Clark and Benjamin. His brother Job was appointed guardian of Lydia and Betty, minor children, they receiving £400 each. He bought a pew in the meeting house at Athol of Moses Goddard for £10, in 1789, although he was then living in Hardwick.

Mary<sup>c</sup> Dexter, daughter of Samuel<sup>d</sup> [Benjamin<sup>c</sup>, William<sup>c</sup>, Thomas<sup>d</sup>] and Mary [Clark] Dexter, was born in Hardwick, Mass., 11 July, 1743, and died ———. She married Benjamin Morton of Athol, 28 Sept., 1760, and went to that place to live.

Benjamin was one of the first children born in Athol, he being born very soon after the arrival of his parents, who went there in the fall of 1735. His parents came from Hatfield and built the first house and organized the first church. Benjamin's parents were Richard and Mary (Waite) Morton, and he was a descendant on his father's side from George Morton, born in Austerfield, Yorkshire, England, 1585, who was the financial agent of Plymouth Colony and chartered the Mayflower for that memorable voyage which ended at Plymouth, 1620. He married Juliana Carpenter, 23 July 1612, and they came in the Ann in June, 1623.

Mrs. Morton's sister, Alice Carpenter, married (2) Gov. William Bradford, the second Governor of Plymouth Colony. Another sister, Agnes Carpenter, was the wife of Dr. Samuel Fuller, one of the passengers on the Mayflower, elder of church, one of the most valuable Pilgrims, and was the first physician that came to this country.

Benjamin Morton was a descendant on his mother's side of Sergeant Benjamin Waite, the hero of the Connecticut Valley (Feb. 25, 1731).

173

Benjamin<sup>5</sup> Dexter, son of Samuel<sup>4</sup> [Benjamin<sup>3</sup>, William<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>] and Mary [Clark] Dexter, was born in Hardwick, 17 Nov., 1747, and remained there until he was eight years of age, when he was bound out to his brother, Jehabod Dexter of Athol, where he remained until he was of age. He received for his services £13 6s. 8d.

The year after he became of age, 1769, he married Hannah Stone of Rutland, Mass.,* and went to live upon what is *Gregory<sup>1</sup> Stone came to America, 1635, aged 45; settled in Watertown; removed to Cambridge; was deacon. He married Lydia Cooper. He died 30 Nov., 1672; she died 24 June, 1674. Six children, all born in England.

John<sup>2</sup> Stone came over with his father; was one of the original proprietors of Sudbury, 1639; was large owner of land; was elder of church; town clerk, 1655; removed now called the "Jesse Worrick farm." The house is still standing. The next year he moved into the west end of the Ruggles grant upon the location that is now occupied by the Elihu Dexter and Sylvester Davis farms in Orange, Mass. "This Ruggles grant was made in 1752 to Rev. Benjamin Ruggles of Middleboro, and consisted of 325 acres on the west line of Athol, but in 1783 this was included in the part set off from Athol to Orange." The first settlement on this tract was made by Jacob Hutchins, on the eastern part, but he sold to Abner Morton.

Benjamin, the subject of this sketch, began a home upon the hill west in 1770, and Samuel Ruggles began a settlement in 1776 on west side, and Lemuel Ruggles settled near him in 1780; but in 1770, when Benjamin built, there was no house between his and the Connecticut River, nothing but a wilderness. He spent the next forty years in settling, and they must have been years of hard labor, for the large cleared fields and great stone walls would indicate a vast amount of work, and he had only one son to share his labors. He moved to Richmond, N. H., in 1811, and bought the Gideon Mann place at Four Corners. This he sold in 1817 to Bassett & Harkness and moved onto the Deacon John Cass farm, where he died in 1818.

When one looks at the extent of the old homestead of Benjamin, Sr., and realizes that with the help of only one son he was able to clear off this large tract of land and build the walls that are now in evidence, he cannot fail to come to the conclusion that he was a man of untiring energy, to Cambridge, 1664. He married Anna How, daughter of Elder How of Watertown. He died 1683. Ten children.

Nathaniel<sup>3</sup> Stone, born in Saxonville, married Sarah Wayt of Malden. Eight children.

Jonathan<sup>3</sup> Stone, born 1690, married Abiel Bigelow, 11 Oct., 1716. He died in 1723.

Simeon<sup>3</sup> Stone, born in 1722, married Hannah Kendall Jan., 1745, in Southboro, Mass.; she was born in 1720, died in 1801. She was daughter of Eleazer<sup>2</sup> Kendall and Hannah (Rowe) Kendall, granddaughter of Eleazer<sup>2</sup> and Ruth Kendall, and great granddaughter of Francis<sup>1</sup> Kendall and Mary (Tidd) Kendall, who was one of the proprietors of Woburn, 1640. Simeon died in Rutland 12 May, 1785.

Simeon<sup>3</sup> and wife moved from Framingham to Marlboro, where Hannah was born 15 Jan., 1746, then to Rutland, where the other children were born: Daniel, 1748; David, 1749; Jonas, 1750; Lucy, 1754; Daniel, 1757; Susanna, 1760. He bought land laid out to Lieut. Simon Davis and set up a tannery, supposed to be the first in town, where he for several years carried on the tanning business. He bought and sold the farm afterward owned by his son Jouas (originally granted to Samuel Sewell, Esq.). He was one of the minute men at the alarm, 1775.

and that he must have been blessed with good health, for when he built the first house it was all a vast wilderness.

Most of the children married and settled within a few miles of the homestead. Hannah, the eldest, however, some years later moved to New York State, and in a letter to her parents she says they were on the road twelve days, but found the place Florence, N. Y., a nice place to live in.

Benjamin was Selectman in Orange in 1791, 1792 and 1793, and again in 1808.

He dealt in land extensively for those days:

In 1770 he bought of Joseph Lawrence of Athol 66 acres (part of the Ruggles grant) for £106. This is supposed to be a part of the homestead where the Dexters now live in Orange.

In 1775 he bought of Edw. Hutchins of Athol another tract which adjoined land he then owned.

In 1781 he bought of Zadok Hayward (blacksmith) of Athol 37 acres situated on both sides of the road which runs from the saw-mill to the county road and on the back side of West Brook, so-called.

In 1784 he bought 12 acres of Susanna Taylor, on road leading from Ruggles' barn to West Hill, near land of Thomas Lord, bounded westerly by town line.

In 1794 he bought a small piece of land of Aaron Lord.

In 1791 he bought of Moses Goddard of Orange two lots of land, 66 acres in each, in Warwick, Nos. 29 and 36 in fourth division.

In 1790 he bought of Josiah Ford of Orange 1-3 acre of land on road leading from county road to Metcalf's saw-mill.

In 1792 he bought of Elijah Ball of Orange, near Atwood's mills.

In 1799 he bought of William and Pressen Lord a meadow-lot of 8 acres.

In 1800 he bought of Ebenezer Webb of Rutland, Vt., 20 acres of land in Benson, Vt., for $2000.

In 1804 he bought of Clark Stone of Wendell 100 acres of land in Somerset, Vt., No. 2 lot in 2d survey.

In 1804 he bought of Benjamin Morton 13 acres of land in Erving, Mass.

In 1805 he bought of Benjamin Goodnow of Somerset, Vt., 100 acres of land, being lot No. 3 in 2d survey.

In 1805 he bought another tract from Benjamin Morton, 10 acres, in Erving.

In 1810 he bought of Benjamin Mann of Richmond, N. H., lot No. 8 in 6 range in Richmond. Upon this he lived from 1811 until 1817.

In 1810 he bought land of Anna Hoar of Orange.

In 1811 he bought 48 $\frac{1}{2}$  acres of land in Erving of Levi Gage for \$430.

In 1812 he bought 47 acres in southerly part of Orange of David Cleveland, and 20 acres in Richmond, N. H., of George and Esek Buffum for $250.

In 1814 he bought 300 acres of land in Richmond, N. H., of Timothy Cole.

In 1817 he bought 116 acres of land in Richmond of Deliverance Cole.

In 1783 he sold Abner Morton a part of the Ruggles tract.

In 1785 he sold Thomas Lord of Athol 10 acres near the saw-mill, on west line of Athol.

He sold in 1805, 50 acres of land in New Salem to Elkanah Hixson, and in 1816 he sold 50 acres of land in New Salem to B. Smith of that place for $400.

In 1812 he sold to David Cleveland of Orange three lots in Orange, one containing the blacksmith shop, formerly owned by Levi Thurston, deceased; and these are only a part of the transfers recorded.

In 1807 he sold to his only son, Benjamin, Jr., one-third of the real estate in Orange, except the house and land about the house where he lived; Benjamin, Jr., not to sell the same for fifteen years; also let him the other two-thirds of the farm for the term of fifteen years, so that the whole could be managed by Benjamin, Jr., one-third of the crops to be given to Benjamin, Sr. Before he moved from Orange to Richmond, N. H., he deeded to his daughter, Hannah

Morton, for love, etc., a tract of land between Warwick and New Salem containing 50 acres, she not to sell it during the life of her father.

In 1815 he sold three tracts of land containing 158 acres (which is now the Sylvester Davis place) to John Davis, the husband of his daughter, Lucy Dexter.

NOTE.—In a letter from Susanna (Stone) Putnam of Cambridge, Mass., written to her sister Hannah, wife of Benjamin Dexter, in January, 1817, she says that in the first week of JUNE, 1816, there was a cold snap for five nights and the ground was covered with snow.

Jonathan Mills<sup>6</sup> Dexter, son of Jonathan<sup>5</sup> [John<sup>4</sup>, John<sup>3</sup>, Wil-

 at Wardsboro, Vt., 26 April, 1788, and died in Baltimore, Md., 28 April, 1844. He obtained his education in his native town, but very early in life moved to Boston, Mass., where he started in business in a small way. He, however, soon developed a desire for mercantile pursuit, and soon went into the real estate business, which he found congenial to his tastes, and he was quite successful from the start. He operated in Boston, Cambridge and Roxbury. He then turned his attention to Lowell, and was a very large owner of land there, at one time owning the land where the City Hall, High School and most of the factories now stand.

Mr. Dexter founded the town of Draent, opposite the city of Lowell, and was instrumental in having a bridge connect the two places. He also purchased 10,000 acres of land in Maine. His operations in real estate extended over a considerable part of the country, and it was while he was at Baltimore, Md., to close a large deal that he suddenly died.

Mr. Dexter took a great interest in young men, and was instrumental in starting more than a score of them in business. In religion he was a strict Presbyterian. He died at the age of 46, having amassed a large fortune for those times and, what is better yet, gained the esteem of his fellowmen.

HARRIET S. (MORSE) DEXTER. WIFE OF JONATHAN M.

Mr. Dexter married Harriet S. Morse, 23 Jan., 1823. She was born in Newfane, Vt., 27 Nov., 1796, and died in Boston, Mass., 10 May, 1841. Harriet Siverly Morse was the daughter of Ebenezer Morse of Boylston, Mass. Her mother was Henrietta Morse of New York, born in 1767 and died in 1853. Her father was an architect and builder, and built the first mill at Newfane, Vt. In 1782 he left New York, where he was then living, bound for Halifax, N. S. He was engaged in the Department of Artifices in the service of King George III. He was granted a bounty of land by proclamation of the King. Her grandfather, Rev. Ebenezer Morse of Boylston, was invited to settle over the new church, and after some bargaining about salary he consented to do so. He was installed 26 Oct., 1743, six churches assisting. The meeting-house at that time was not finished; it had neither pulpit, pews, doors nor even a permanent floor. It was completed the next year (1744). Individuals built their own pews where spaces were granted to them, as was customary, and this continued until 1761. Mr. Morse remained with the church twenty-five years, but when the disaffection of the Colonies arose he appeared as a Royalist, and as the church people were patriotic, there was a difference between them, and he was dismissed 10 Nov., 1755. He remained in town, however, and took up the practice of medicine and also fitted students for college. Mr. Morse was born in Medfield, 2 March, 1718; graduated at Harvard College 1737; studied law with John Chandler. He was married to Persis, daughter of John Bush. She was a descendant of John Howe, who came from England and who was connected with Lord Charles How, Earl of Lancaster, in reign of Charles I. She was born ———; died 6 May, 1788. He died in 1802, aged 83 years.

Linus W.<sup>6</sup> Dexter, son of Jonathan<sup>5</sup> [John<sup>4</sup>, John<sup>3</sup>, William<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>] and Dolly [White] Dexter, was born in Wardsboro, Vt., 24 May, 1813, and died February, 1899. He married Caroline Carpenter.

Linus Dexter went to Philadelphia early in life and there laid the foundation for his fortune in the confectionery and fancy baking business. He afterwards extended the business to other large eastern cities. He was known as the inventor of the "angel cake." He was fond of good horses, and years ago his stables in Philadelphia contained some of the finest animals in the country. He met with business reverses at one time, but set to work manfully and amassed a second fortune.

Mr. Dexter had a tender heart for the poor and needy, but so modest and secret was he in his acts of charity that none but his closest friends knew of them. He was always honest and upright in his business, and was never known to be harsh to the poor in his tenements or exacting to his debtors. He died at Vineland, N. J., aged 86, and left a fortune of $500,000, which he had willed to his wife. His wife died shortly before he did.

1775. He was one of nine children, and the only boy (except one that died when an infant) there was in the family. With the large amount of forest land that his father had to clear, his time must have been fully occupied. What schooling he had was at the district school No. 6. His father was a large owner of real estate, and we find that he had some dealings in it, as in March, 1803, he sold a lot on Lyon Hill, so called, in Athol, of eight acres, near Captain Oliver's house, to Calvin Eaton, and at the same time and to the same person a farm of 113 acres on Lyon Hill; this last he bought of Abraham Nut in 1797. In 1807 he bought of his father a part of the old homestead and leased the balance of it, and from that time on he continued to make that his home. From 1819 to his death, the records show that he conveyed eighteen pieces of property. He and his brother-in-law, John Davis, were the executors of his father's will. His mother, who survived his father many years, made her home with him. He and two of his sisters joined the Methodist class that was held in the vicinity, but after a few years he joined the Baptist Church. He was married four times: his first wife was Hephzibah Ballard of Athol, married April, 1798; she was born 25 April, 1779, and died 28 Dec., 1798. They had no children. They had seven children. His fourth wife was Frances Tuttle, the daughter of Jedediah and Lucia (Smith) Tuttle of Winchendon, Mass. (see Tuttle family). ## [COPY OF AN OLD LETTER.]

MONCKTON, 30th of 11th mo., 1806.

these lines are to inform that I enjoy my helth better than heretofore. My famly are all in usel helth; also our aged parents and connections are favoured with the same blesing and I hope that these will find you and yours enjoying good helth; I often think of you and your lonely situation as to the oppertunity of friend, company, with earnest desires for your preservation in the truth.

Dear Friends, I being acquainted with straits temptations and truely many ways even the winding & twincings of our Souls enemy to discourage dishearten & draw aside from the rite; ya almost reddy to give up all hopes at times, yet feel willing to say for all our encouragement there is that that doth at times bare up over it all and I oftenest find it by retireing inward, by getting still and quiet as to the anctious desires and willings and runings of my own mind fealing low and humble wiling to become as it ware a fool in the eyse of the worldly wise for the sake of that that givs peas to the mind and causeth to rejoice in hope; ya by thus waiting upon the Lord for counsil we feel our iner man to be strengthened he that waiteth upon the Lord shall renew his strength also she that waiteth upon the Lord shall renew h er strength. I hope I may not say to much but fealing a wish for your eternel welfare thought there mite be no harm in pening a few lines byway of encouragement wishing that we may all hold out to the end in well doing for it is the end that crowns all, therefore it is my ardent desire that we may all follow the lamb wheresoever he leadeth.

So conclude for this your well wishing friend, my wife jornes me in kind Love to you all, we also desire to be remembered to all enquireing friends.

please to write to us often as way makes.

William Legg of Mendon and Milford was perhaps brother of John of Mendon, who was one of Selectmen in 1738-1743. William lived in that part of Mendon that was set off in 1780 and formed the town of Milford. He was one of the relief expedition that marched to Fort William Henry, August, 1757. He was in Capt. Phinehas Lovitt's company. He resided on Silver Hill Street and his descendants for three generations occupied the same farm. He married (1) Hannah Nelson, daughter of Gershom and Abigail (Ellithorpe) Nelson. She was born in Rowley, 14 Oct., 1714, and died 3 July, 1755. He married (2) Elizabeth Tenney, 18 Jan., 1759 (no children by second wife). He had seven children, two daughters and five sons. All the sons were in the service during the Revolutionary War and all were in their cousin, Capt. Gershom Nelson's, company.

Five children:

- 1 Gershom Legg, private, b. 1736; m. Mary Underwood in 1757.

3. David Legg, corporal, b. —; m. Hannah Dewing, 11 March, 1779.
- 4 William Legg, private, b. —; m. Hephzibah Corbett, 4 June, 1779.
- 5 Nathaniel Legg, private, b. —; m. Abigail White, 21 Nov., 1771.

William and David moved to Orange, Mass., sometime in 1780 or 1781; and David, who married Hannah Dewing, had Betsey, who was born 21 May, 1780, and married Benjamin Dexter (was his third wife), 27 Nov., 1803. She died 29 July, 1818. (See No. 354.)

REVOLUTIONARY RECORD.—David Legg of Mendon, with Capt. Gershom Nelson's company, marched on alarm of April 19, 1775, to Cambridge and Roxbury; service nine days. Also Capt. Samuel Warren's company, Col. Joseph Reed's 20th Regiment, muster dated 1 Aug., 1775. Enlisted 27

John<sup>1</sup> Tuttle came over in the "Planter" in 1635. He was free-man in Ipswich, 1639; Representative, 1644; died in 1656, and was born probably 1596. Four children came over with him, and there were six more born here:

Simon<sup>2</sup> Tuttle, m. Sarah Cogswell of Ipswich.

Lucy<sup>6</sup> Dexter, daughter of Benjamin<sup>5</sup> [Samuel<sup>4</sup>, Benjamin<sup>3</sup>, William<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>] and Hannah [Stone] Dexter, was born 24 Dec., 1777, and died in Orange, 21 Aug., 1865, age nearly 88 years. She married 21 Aug., 1806, John Davis, the son of Captain John and Joanna (Hix) Davis of Royalston, Mass. He and his father both served in the Revolutionary War, although John was not then 17 years of age. She was his second wife, he having a family of five children at the time. They moved to Orange and went to keeping house in what is now called the "Sylvester Davis" house and which is shown in cut. In 1815 they bought the farm of her father, Benjamin Dexter, and it was their home as long as they lived; there all their children were born. At the death of her husband in 1846, the farm was willed to her youngest son, Sylvester, upon condition that he support his mother, and she continued to enjoy a home there until her death in 1865. She was a quiet, unassuming lady, and carried out the ideas of the "Sect of Friends," of which she was a member. The records of the old Methodist class give her as a member in 1817. She received a pension from 1846 until her death, on account of the service her husband gave during the Revolutionary War. Her husband was a man of more than ordinary standing in the community in which he lived, and was called upon to administer the estates of deceased persons; was selectman of Orange, 1785-86-87 and 1819-20-21. They had six children. Of the eleven children that John Davis had, all but one lived to old age, and all died in the same order in which they were born, which is a singular fact in so large a family. The youngest and last child died but a few months ago.

REVOLUTIONARY RECORD OF JOHN DAVIS (Vol. IV, page 505, Massachusetts Revolution).—John Davis of Royalston, Mass., in list of men mustered by Thomas Newhall, muster master for Worcester County, to serve at Rhode Island until Jan. 1, 1780; Capt. THE OLD DEXTER HOUSE.

This house was erected previous to 1800, and stands upon the probable site of the first house erected by William Dexter about 1679, it being in about the centre of the tract of land owned by him. This farm was about three-fourths of a mile square, having a brook running through it, upon the bank of which in olden times stood a saw-mill and a grist-mill, which were run by the Dexters.

There are now three houses built by Dexters standing within the borders of this original tract, all of them over a hundred years old and all occupied for the most of the time by Dexters.

He married Mary Dexter, 15 Oct., 1804. He was a caulker by trade. At his death his wife had her thirds of the estate set off by court, 2 Nov., 1831.

From a clipping from a New Bedford paper of 1827:

On January 31, 1827, the sloop Betsey of Wareham came into Mattapoisett Harbor and hauled in as near the shore as was practicable on account of the ice; soon after she was seen to be drifting toward the bay and several persons from the shore went to her assistance. About 7 o'clock in the evening they lost the small skiff overboard and Mr. Gideon Dexter and Mr. Caleb Dexter, Jr., of Mattapoisett, took a boat and went to recover the skiff. The wind being strong at north and the weather extremely cold, they were unable to return to the sloop, which was run ashore, and the persons on board landed with difficulty, wet and much exhausted. The next morning, the men and boats not having returned, search was made and the skiff was found on Goat Island, about half a mile distant, and the body of Caleb Dexter was found lying on the marsh frozen. The other boat drifted out of the bay and was picked up near East Chop, off Holmes Hole, with the body of Gideon Dexter, which was also frozen. His hands were much lacerated and the oar battered to pieces, from which it appears he exerted himself to return until exhausted. Mr. Gideon Dexter was 46 years old, and left wife and nine children. Mr. Caleb Dexter, Jr., was 34 years of age, and left a wife and an aged father and mother to lament their loss.

Avery J.<sup>7</sup> Dexter, son of Charles<sup>6</sup> [David<sup>5</sup>, John<sup>4</sup>, John<sup>3</sup>, William<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>] and Lucinda [Baseom] Dexter, was born 27 April, 1818, at Wardsboro, Vt. In early life he resided for a few years at Dover, and for a short time with his brother in Albany, but with these exceptions he has always made his home at Wardsboro. He was of a retiring disposition, always avoiding notoriety, yet his kindly sympathies and his magnetic presence attracted all classes toward him, and his intuitive judgment, seldom wrong, caused his advice and counsel to be extensively sought. He was not ambitious. That he came to be the leading man in the affairs of the town was something that he could not well avoid; it came to him naturally. For the last thirty years of his life he could have been elected to any office in the gift of the town that he would accept. He was a justice of the peace for thirty-nine years; one of the Selectmen for twenty-two years, and town clerk for thirty years. He represented the town in the Legislature in 1858, 1859, 1864, 1865, 1878, 1886. In his official business he was unflinching in maintaining what he deemed to be right, which he did in such a manner and with such skill in the use of words that even the adverse party was generally satisfied.

He married 22 March, 1841, Mary D. White. He died at Wardsboro, Vt., 18 April, 1893.

He was founder of the Cambridge Tribune, which was a success from the start. The Tribune Company occupied a three-story building for printing opposite Harvard College Library. This business he sold out in 1885, and moved to Los Angeles, Cal., where he remained six years.

He then moved to San Francisco, Cal., where he has since resided. For many years he and his son, David H. Dexter, edited and published a financial and business paper, "Equity," at San Francisco. He is now President of the California Bible Society, and has been connected with the press for many years, and contributed to many of the

She married James Parmelee, 13 Oct., 1842. He died on 15 Nov., 1854, at Smithfield, N. Y. Thus early in life she was left a widow with three small children to support. Under these trying circumstances she was equal to every emergency and developed that fortitude and heroism very few possess. She was industrious and prudent, but no one ever went away hungry from her door. August, 1870, came another affliction, when she lost her only son, then just grown to manhood. Above all this she arose and with patient, tender hands bestowed every attention possible upon the living, and all remember with gratitude "Aunt Sarah," as she was called. She died 26 May, 1894. She left two daughters.

From Hardwick he went to Brookfield. In 1823 he moved to Worcester, Mass., where he established a foundry. In 1825 he was associated with some of the leading men of Worcester in a foundry at Brookfield, where all kinds of castings were made, the doors of the Court House in Worcester being of his manufacture. He returned to Worcester in 1830 and continued at the old stand for over forty years.

born at Orange, Mass., 10 April, 1813, and died at Black River, N. Y., 9 Aug., 1880.

On Nov. 5, 1835, he was married to Maria Hubbard, daughter of Daniel and Susan (Eddy) Hubbard of Royalston, Mass. She was born 28 July, 1812, and died at Black River, N. Y., 10 July, 1895.

David Dexter was educated in the common schools of his native town. As a young man he was a carpenter and joiner. In 1838, on account of his health, he found it necessary to leave his home in Orange, and go to Black River, where he decided to locate.

He made a contract with Nelson Scott to build a chair factory, and, returning to Massachusetts in the fall of 1839, he moved his family, consisting of his wife and one son, Everett, to Black River, making the trip overland in wagons.

Four years later he returned to Orange on a visit, taking his family with him. The trip was made by carriage, the provisions carried in a large cheese-box under the seat, and the nights spent at road-houses along the way.

He enlarged the original factory buildings from time to time, admitting in 1864 his son, Everett, as junior partner. In 1866 the entire factory was burned. Before breakfast the next morning after the fire, he went to the owner of another shop and made a bargain to buy it. The factory was at once rebuilt on a larger scale. The business constantly increased in size until at the time of his death seventy men were employed. The rough log direct from the woodsman was rolled in at one end of the building and came out at the other a completed chair.

His reputation was second to none in the country for good work, and the "Dexter chairs" found a ready market all over the United States and Canada and in Europe. His word was considered as good as his bond. He was an excellent mechanic and was ready to adopt new-machinery and ideas as they were developed. He built many machines from his own plans.

He was active in public improvement and did much to promote the building of Carthage, Watertown and Sacketts Harbor Railroad, which connected with the Utica & Black River Railroad at Carthage, and the Rome, Watertown & Ogdensburg Railroad at Watertown. This road was a means of greatly developing the business at Black River. He was a director of the railroad from the beginning until his death. He was the principal mover in the erection of a church in his village, and after the completion, his money chiefly maintained it.

At his death in 1880, his estate, consisting of the factory and some real estate, was left to his wife and two sons, Everett and Erwin.

He was born at Orange and educated in the schools of that town. Soon after 1840 he moved to Black River, N. Y., where his brother David had established a manufactory of chairs, and for a time he was associated with him in the business, but later he sold his interest to David, but remained as an employee.

No children.

Simeon<sup>7</sup> Dexter, seventh son and ninth child of Benjamin<sup>6</sup> [Benjamin<sup>5</sup>, Samuel<sup>4</sup>, Benjamin<sup>3</sup>, William<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>] and Frances [Tuttle] Dexter, was born 30 Aug., 1822, in Orange, and grew up on his father's farm. By intelligent use of his opportunities in the common schools of his native town, he was enabled to teach school as a beginning in independent effort. About the time of his majority he suffered a fracture of his wrist, and soon after went to Boston, where he secured employment in a wholesale grocery establishment owned by an uncle. While there he dislocated the same wrist while at work, and made a visit to his half-brothers, David and Aaron, at Black River, while recovering the use of his arm. This was in 1844. The elder brother had established a chair factory, in which the second was employed, and to whose activity and usefulness much of the success of the enterprise was owing. Simon decided to cast his lot with his brothers, and entered the employ of the elder in the shop as soon as he was able to work. After a year he became a partner in the business, which was then conducted under the title of D. & S. Dexter, until 5 December, 1857, when Simeon sold out his interest. The factory at that time was located on the south side of the river, where Simeon lived. On the 1st of January, 1858, he moved to the north side, in the town of Leray, and began the manufacture of a wire-tooth hay rake, which he continued until 1870. At the same time he managed the farm which he had purchased and on which he lived and maintained his shop. Most of his manufacturing was done in the winter, and chiefly by himself, and was made quite profitable. In 1870 Mr. Dexter went to Watertown and purchased a half interest in the Excelsior Mills, then owned by Moulton & Herrick, and the new firm became Dexter & Herrick. For five years this arrangement was continued until failing health compelled Mr. Dexter to retire. In 1876 he returned to Black River and continued to reside there until his death, 13 Aug., 1898, when his seventy-sixth year was almost completed.

Upon the death of his younger son, he became part owner of the chair factory of the latter, but did not operate it.

About 1873, while residing in Watertown, Mr. Dexter united with the Arsenal Street Methodist Church, in which he served for some time as steward. On returning to Black River he transferred his membership and was trustee and steward of the local church. In early life he acted politically with the Whig party, and he was a member of the Jefferson County convention in which the Republican party was locally organized, as colleague of his father-in-law, Phineas Hardy, and was ever after a loyal supporter of its principles. He did not desire to enter the public service and avoided office-holding.

He was married 10 Dec., 1851, to Maria Hardy, third child and eldest daughter of Phineas and Sarah (Howland) Hardy. Their children were Henry C., Charles P. and Fanny Sarah, and two who died in infancy.

Simeon Dexter was a man of unusual intelligence and grasp of affairs. He was an extensive reader, and his excellent memory enabled him to make use of his information.

With native acumen, he arrived at sound conclusions, grasping details without exhaustive examination: was cheerful, and he was a pleasant companion and popular with all classes of people. His demise was mourned by all who knew him.

finishing his normal course, he taught in the high school at Hartford, Ct.; Rockport, Orange and Oxford in his native State. He then took up the business of civil engineer, land surveyor and conveyancer. In 1871 he received appointment as justice of the peace. His business gave him an intimate acquaintance with the local history of his own and neighboring towns.

He was active in advancing the educational and literary interests of his town, serving with fidelity on the School Board for ten years, and as Library Committee for an equal length of time. He was also an influential member of the Board of Trade. He and Sylvester Davis were the leading spirits in forming the Orange Historical and Antiquarian Society, and contributed a large share of the articles that compose the collection of that Society.

Keenly observant of nature in his travels over New England and New York State, he was constantly studying plant and animal life and the geology and mineralogy of the regions through which he passed. To ride with him about the country and see nature with his eyes, was counted a privilege by his friends.

In 1892 he contributed a very fine historical sketch of the town of Orange which was used in the centennial number of the Greenfield Gazette. In conversation his fund of anecdotes of local characters and reminiscences, seemed inexhaustible. He died 27 Nov., 1897.

Betsey<sup>7</sup> Wheeler, daughter of Betsey<sup>6</sup> [Benjamin<sup>5</sup>, Samuel<sup>4</sup>, Benjamin<sup>3</sup>, William<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>] Dexter and Zacheus Wheeler, was born at Orange, Mass., 21 Jan., 1807, and died at Millbury, Mass., 2 Dec., 1883. She married Simon Brown Poland of Winchendon, Mass., 28 Feb., 1829.

MRS. S. B. POLAND (BETSEY W.).

Simon Brown Poland, son of William Poland and Betsey (Brown) Poland, was born at Winchendon, Mass., on the first day of June, 1802.

He was the youngest of eleven children. He was brought up on his father's farm and attended the district school, as was the custom in those days, acquiring the usual education of a farmer boy of that period.

At an early age he learned the carpenter's trade, in which he engaged while not otherwise occupied on his father's farm.

He married, 28 Feb., 1829, and soon after acquired a farm of his own at Winchendon, Mass. Here all of his ten children were born.

In the fall of 1854 he removed with his family to Millbury, Mass., where he acquired another farm. One of his aims in moving to Millbury was to secure a better education for his children.

SIMON B. POLAND

In 1865 he sold his farm at Millbury and returned with his family to Winchendon, where he continued to reside until 1870. In that year he again removed his family to Millbury, where he remained until his death, 20 Feb., 1873.

While a resident both of Millbury and Winchendon, he served at different times as Prudential Committee of the school district, and also as a member of the Board of Overseers of the Poor.

Throughout his life he was universally beloved as well as respected by all who knew him. He was distinguished for his sturdy industry, his high civic integrity and his incorruptible honesty. He was buried in the Riverside Cemetery in Winchendon, Mass.

He was allowed to keep his horses on the common, 1697; was freeman, 1707; was grantee of town of Winchendon, 1737, but did not move there; was killed by falling from a tree in 1747. In 1712 he and James Poland were signers to a petition for a separate precinct, and he was on the committee to build the new church. He had at least two sons, Joseph and Nathaniel, for in 1761 they sold his right in the land at Winchendon to Charles Tuttle.

Joseph Poland, son of above Samuel, was born in 1702 or 1703 at Ipswich, and died in 1798. He married Elizabeth ————. They must have had two sons, William and Samuel, for they bought the farm at Winchendon together in 1786, Samuel in 1806 selling his half to William.

William Poland, son of Joseph, was born in Ipswich, 6 April, 1757, and removed to Winchendon in 1788. He married Betsey Brown in 1762, and they had eleven children, Simon Brown Poland being the youngest.

Mrs. Hicks went on a voyage with her husband soon after their marriage. They sailed from New Bedford on the bark "Mermaid," August, 1873, for a cruise in the Indian Ocean after whales.

I quote her letter: "We had good weather and very little sickness. Thursday, Oct. 16, Flores was in sight. Captain Hicks went ashore in the morning and returned to the ship for dinner. At two o'clock we both went ashore. To walk upon the ground after rolling about for six weeks was enjoyment. We spent the afternoon on shore. We sighted Fayal Wednesday, Oct. 22, and went in about twelve o'clock noon of the 23rd. We left Fayal at eight the morning of the 25th. We then cruised in the Atlantic and took a great many whales. Having rounded the Cape of Good Hope with rather cold, windy weather, we sailed north into the Indian Ocean. Madagascar was sighted the 26th of March, 1874. Here the weather grew warmer and calmer. The 18th of May, we went into Mahi, Seychelle Islands. It is a beautiful island, with a fine climate. There are cocoanut groves, and wild cinnamon and cloves. Bananas are raised there and the vanilla bean cultivated. We were all glad to leave the vessel after being confined to it for nearly five months. We hired a house, and with the help of a few native servants lived comfortably. Captain Hicks took the ship out June 2, though I lived there until Aug. 29, when we left for a cruise on the coast of Arabia, where we were sailing on summer seas all the time. It was calm, warm and delightful living. The 22nd of July, 1875, we spent the day on the island of Johanna, which is one of the Comoro Islands.

“We returned to New Bedford with a full cargo of oil, about the 16th of March, 1876, having had good luck, good weather and a pleasant voyage.”

Captain Hicks made other voyages, being accompanied in 1881 by his wife and two children. One of the voyages proved unsuccessful and unpleasant, as bad weather prevailed. They returned home in July, 1883.

They had six children :

[Boardman] Dexter, was born at Augusta, Me., 25 Jan., 1860. He married Nellie J. Greenwood, 14 April, 1879; she died 8 Nov., 1900.

GEORGE T. DEXTER.

Two children :

- 1557    i    Frederick Greenwood<sup>9</sup> Dexter, b. 11 Aug., 1881.
1558    ii    Leon Boardman<sup>9</sup> Dexter, b. 4 June, 1893.

The following from an insurance journal shows Mr. Dexter's standing:

“Within recent years a new force has entered the agency business of life insurance in the person of George T. Dexter, superintendent of domestic agencies of the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York. He is not only a new force, but he represents individual characteristics which distinguish him from other men who have won great fame in the management of large agency corps. The handling of agents, especially under the modern tendency to bring them into closer touch with the home office, requires talents of a peculiar order, not always of the same kind, because different men manage by different methods. Mr. Dexter is certainly not a copy or a duplicate, in any sense of the word, of others who exert a controlling power in the great field of life insurance.

“Mr. Dexter is the son of a Baptist clergyman. His boyhood was passed in Maine, where he acquired his early education. At the age of eighteen he became imbued with a boyish ambition for the sea and enlisted as a sailor on a vessel trading in the Orient, by way of Cape Horn. He spent two years before the mast, sharing the trials and hardships of a common seaman, bunking in the forecabin and partaking of the seaman's homely fare. None of his shipmates suspected that the master of the vessel was Dexter's brother-in-law.

“The physical training and moral discipline secured in this school had much to do in developing the strength of character shown in Mr. Dexter's later life. After giving up the sea he acted as commercial traveler for a short time, but becoming interested in life insurance, was induced to act as solicitor for the United States Life at Keene, N. H.

“He was a success in this business from the very start, so successful, in fact, that he was soon made general agent of the company at Worcester, Mass. He occupied this position one year, and then accepted a call to a larger field, as superintendent of agencies for E. W. Peet, the Mutual Life's manager at St. Paul. He supervised the company's work in Minnesota and Iowa. His success in this department was conspicuous, and in a few years he was promoted to supervise the fieldmen in the Mutual Life's great Ohio agency of L. C. Lawton & Co.

“His work in this field attracted the particular attention of the home office. He was entrusted with the execution of several missions of supreme importance, requiring great judgment and tact. The skill with which he handled these matters so impressed the executive officials of the company that in 1898 he was selected to organize and manage the company's department of domestic agencies.

“Like most men who occupy positions of responsibility Mr. Dexter is a man of great energy, possessing that talent for achievement and hard work which a great philosopher has said lies at the root of all genius. Unlike some who have made their mark in life insurance, there is nothing spectacular in his make-up, nothing sensational in his methods of doing business. Neither in his manner nor his speech does he boast of great things to be done. Nevertheless, no one who has ever come in contact with him in a business way, for even the briefest period, ever doubted the definiteness of his plans or the fixity of his purpose. Although he keeps his own counsel he knows what there is to do and is quick to see how it is to be done. Quietness, reserve, determination are the essential characteristics of his make-up, and his plans are only revealed in their fulfillment.

“In dealing with competing interests, or in the adjustment of business complications, he has proved himself a born diplomat. Admitting no wrong or weakness in his own cause he concedes only non-essentials to the opposition. Having taken his stand upon sure ground he maintains it unreservedly. Although quick to act in emergencies, nothing is done which is ill considered. In subsequent developments he has nothing to unsay, nothing to explain away. He is pre-eminently a safe man in his position. He makes the minimum of mistakes.

“In his intercourse with the field force Mr. Dexter is dignified, but at the same time frank and straightforward. He never 'jollies' his agents. He does not awaken in them false hopes or foster vain expectations. The managers and agents working under him know that he is dependable, that his words and acts are not susceptible of double interpretation, and that he will always do more, not less, than he promises."

life was spent in his native town on the farm at home, and learning the carpenter's trade of Deacon Howe. He was married to Sarah Jane Wood, 7 Oct., 1858, and they have had four children, Frank Edward, Fred Abbott, Mabel L. and Louise. He removed to Athol, Mass., about 1864 or '65, and for over thirty years was the leading builder and contractor of that town, and some of Athol's finest residences are the work of his hand and brain, and it has been said of him that he never erected a poor building.

He was a Republican in politics and intelligently interested in public affairs. He was a member of Tully Lodge of Odd Fellows. His health had not been good the last few years of his life, and he had retired from active work.

His death was caused by drowning 28 Feb., 1902, and the only cause that can be given is a general despondency over his ill health. He leaves a good name, and the sad circumstance of his departure from this life casts no reflections on his character or spirit.

Everett Augustus<sup>8</sup> Dexter, eldest child of David<sup>7</sup> [Benjamin<sup>6</sup>, Benjamin<sup>5</sup>, Samuel<sup>4</sup>, Benjamin<sup>3</sup>, William<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>] and Maria [Hubbard] Dexter, was born 3 Aug., 1836, in Orange, Mass., and was a small child when his parents settled at Black River. He attended the public school of that village, and his father planned to send him to college. The son, however, preferred a business career, and was permitted to begin at an early age to work in the chair factory of his father. He worked his way through all departments of the work and was master of every detail. He became partner with his father in 1864, and succeeded to the sole ownership in 1880. Soon after this he admitted his brother, David Erwin Dexter, to partnership, and the business was conducted under the name of David Dexter's Sons. On account of failing health Everett Dexter went to Colorado in 1889, and remained there three years. Returning to Black River, he passed away at his home there, 12 March, 1893.

A man of domestic tastes, Mr. Dexter preferred his home to the market place, and he shunned public office, though a public-spirited citizen, and was widely respected as a thoroughly upright man. He was a believer in the principles of the Republican party, and sustained them with his influence at all times. He was a regular attendant of the local church, in which he was a trustee, and was a member of Watertown Lodge, No. 49, Free and Accepted Masons.

A sound and incorruptible business man, he never lost the respect and esteem of his contemporaries. Mr. Dexter was married to Miss Martha Oakes, Oct. 8, 1864, who was born May 18, 1840, at Antwerp, Jefferson County, a daughter of George and Martha (Green) Choate Oakes. The last named was a descendant of Robert and Sarah Choate, whose son, John Choate, was a pioneer settler of New England. The only child of Everett A. and Martha (Oakes) Dexter is Carolyn Martha, who was born in Black River. She is a graduate of the Watertown High School, and of the Oswego Normal School. She is now a kindergarten teacher in New York, residing with her mother in Jamaica, Long Island.

The esteem in which Mr. Dexter was held in the community is shown by the following extracts from an obituary published in the Watertown Times, and the resolutions adopted by his Masonic lodge, namely: "In 1839, when about three years of age, the subject of this sketch came with his parents from Massachusetts to Black River, which he has seen grow from a small hamlet to a thriving manufacturing town. To this growth and to all that tended to the improvement of the village and its inhabitants, Mr. Dexter was always ready to extend both moral and financial aid." . . . "Among the scores of employees in the factory, many of whom had worked there a score of years, Mr. Dexter was uniformly loved and respected." . . .

"A kind husband and father, a considerate employer, an upright business man and a public-spirited citizen, Mr. Dexter's death will be more widely felt than that of any other resident of the village who has passed away."

"Whereas, our earthly lodge has thus lost one who was dear to us, as a true and worthy friend, associate and brother, and the grand lodge above has gained another bright, immortal soul, therefore be it,

"Resolved, that our lodge be draped in the usual mourning, that a page in this book of minutes be set apart to perpetuate his name and memory, that these preambles and resolutions be published in the Daily Times, and that a copy thereof be transmitted to the sorrowing relatives, and that while we mourn for one whom we dearly loved, and tender to the bereaved ones our deep and sincere sympathy in this hour of their affliction, we humbly, devoutly and reverently bow to the inevitable laws of our Supreme Grand Master above, who doeth all things well."

One child:

Henry Clay<sup>8</sup> Dexter, eldest son of Simeon<sup>7</sup> [Benjamin<sup>6</sup>, Benjamin<sup>5</sup>, Samuel<sup>4</sup>, Benjamin<sup>3</sup>, William<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>] and Maria [Hardy] Dexter was born 4 May, 1858, in Black River, N. Y., and received most of his education in the Watertown public schools, and at Potsdam Normal School. In 1882 he entered the employ of Poor, Dexter & Co., chair manufacturers at Black River. His brother Charles was a partner in this business, and the share of the management, on account of Charles' failing health, soon evolved on him. On March 4, 1884, he became a partner in the firm, and a year later, he and Charles bought out the other partners, Christopher Poor and Charles Wolf, and at once joined with the owners of a factory and water power on the north side of the river, D. Hubbard Scott and Byron N. Scott, and immediately moved their woodworking department into this shop. After one year, the Dexter brothers bought out the other two and continued the business of chair-making alone, under the name of Dexter & Co. After the death of Charles, the name was made H. C. Dexter Chair Co., under which title it was incorporated in 1890. On the 24th of November, 1894, the shop, which stood on the present site of the Union School building, was destroyed by fire. A new building was erected on the north side of the river, and this was burned Feb. 17, 1900. It was immediately rebuilt on a larger scale than before, and is now the scene of busy activity. A small part of the product is exported, but the larger portion is sent to the large cities, such as New York, Philadelphia, Boston and Pittsburg.

Mr. Dexter is an active member of the Methodist Church,

HENRY C. DEXTER.

having long been Chairman of the Board of Stewards and President of the Trustees. He has always fostered the public school system, and has had a large influence in the improvement of the schools of his native village. Soon after his election as school trustee in 1892, he began an agitation of the plan of consolidation of school districts, on opposite sides of the river and in separate towns, and this was brought about in 1893. This was a stepping-stone toward the incorporation of the village, lying in two separate towns, and largely through the influence of Mr. Dexter this was consummated. Believing that his business holds the most important demand upon his time, he avoids public office, but has served as water commissioner of the village. He is a successful business man and a well-wisher toward all the world.

Mr. Dexter was married 21 Jan., 1885, to Clara L. Tisdale, daughter of Rev. William and Eunice Louise (Morehouse) Tisdale, the latter now deceased. Mr. Tisdale is a member of the Central New York Methodist Conference, and has been stationed at various points in this section, according to the system of his church. He is of an old Canadian family, and one of his brothers has been many years a member of the Dominion Parliament, having formerly been a member of the Governor-General's Cabinet. Mrs. Tisdale was a daughter of Somers Morehouse, of Mexico, Oswego County, New York.

The children of Henry C. and Clara L. Dexter are:

- 1614    i    Fanny Eunice<sup>9</sup> Dexter, b. 10 June, 1887.
- 1615    ii   William Charles<sup>9</sup> Dexter, b. 18 March, 1891.
- 1616    iii   Dorothy May<sup>9</sup> Dexter, b. 11 Sept., 1895; d. 28 April, 1896.
- 1617    iv    Marion Louise<sup>9</sup> Dexter, b. 26 March, 1902.

Charles Phineas<sup>8</sup> Dexter, second son of Simeon<sup>7</sup> [Benjamin<sup>6</sup>, Benjamin<sup>5</sup>, Samuel<sup>4</sup>, Benjamin<sup>3</sup>, William<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>] and Maria [Hardy] Dexter, was born 2 Sept., 1860, at Black River, and graduated from the Watertown High School in 1878. He taught school two years in Rutland and Leray, and in 1881 joined Charles Wolf in the purchase of the interest of David E. Dexter in the chair manufacturing business of Poor & Dexter. The business was then continued under the title of Poor, Dexter & Co., and Charles P. Dexter continued to be an owner, under various titles, until his death, 3 May, 1886. As above related, he became joint owner with his elder brother of the entire plant in 1884. He possessed a rare capacity for business, and instituted systems of business management which are still in use by his successors. Like his father, he had a strong grasp of details, and would have attained a high position in the business world, without doubt, had his life continued to the allotted time. His close application to business undermined his health, and he began to shift some of his cares to his brother by 1883. During the summer of the following year he remained in a sanitarium at Dansville, N. Y., and in the autumn went to San Antonio, Texas. After remaining there a year, he went to the highest altitude on the Southern Pacific Railroad, at San Geronimo, Cal., where his life passed out on the date above named. He became a member of the Methodist Church early in life, and while in Texas affiliated with the Methodist Church South. He was small of stature, but great in soul and mind, and had a most cheerful disposition. Though he must have felt that death was near during his last years, he never complained and kept up a happy frame of mind. Fond of anecdote, he was a capital storyteller, and aided much in the cheer of any society in which he was placed. His death was a loss to the business community and to the life of his native place, both social and material.

The following tribute was written by Professor W. K. Wickes, former principal of Watertown High School, and at present principal of the Syracuse (N. Y.) High School:

“Charles Dexter, or ‘Charlie,’ as he was familiarly called, was an interesting study to students of human nature. The writer knew him—knew him well—at that period of his life when his character was most rapidly forming and his mind was most active. Rarely are the ‘elements’ which go to make up a ‘man’ mixed in such strange proportions as in him; never have they better blended to form a manly character. No over-zealous critics, alert to find flaws in poor human nature, could truthfully tax this young man with the possession and exercise of a mean trait of character. On the contrary, friend and foe—if foe, indeed, he had—would acknowledge the existence in him, and that, too, in the most marked degree and unalloyed kind, of the best, most attractive traits of human nature. I know not how better to define his character than by saying that he was a young man of generous uprightness. And that, it seems to me, means much. For it implies that while he was good, he was not selfishly so, as some good men have, alas, been known to be. It means, moreover, that the generosity which was so characteristic of him was not simply the benevolent impulse of an unjudging heart, but was dominated and controlled by such thoughtful action of the mind as insured the morality and uprightness of that generosity. Indeed, the traits of this young man’s mind were in a very true and real sense inseparable from those of his heart. How clear, keen and right judging the operations of his mind were! Who that ever saw and heard him in the fervor of debate will not say ‘true’ to this? And when the question was one in which both his feelings and his powers were interested, how admirable his argument; and how perfectly unique his manner of illustration and expression.

“But this generous heart and clear mind were lodged in a slight physical frame-work, which early gave way to the fell power of disease. He died far from home and friends, and yet had so endeared himself to strangers that they tenderly proffered to him all aid in their power. It was little, however, that they could do. Yet, there can be no doubt that he was ‘sustained and soothed by an unfaltering trust,’ and so realized, though far from home, the truth of that beautiful old saying, ‘The way to heaven is the same out of all places.’”

house in which the subject of this sketch was born, there was a flower bed bordered with dwarf fleur-de-lis in bloom. The line of blue flowers and green-leaf points lay on the snow like a rift of sky in a summer cloud.

In his boyhood Mr. Dexter attended the graded and high schools of Orange, and assisted his father in his farm work, lumbering and civil engineering. During these early years, he acquired a practical knowledge in these lines of business which was of much use in later life.

After leaving school, he was employed for a time in the factory of the New Home Sewing Machine Co. He then engaged in business for himself as a farmer and milk dealer, also carrying on trade in wood and lumber.

Mr. Dexter is in religion a Congregationalist, and in politics a Republican. He also belongs to the society of Odd Fellows and has held the office of Treasurer of the local lodge for several years. He married Martha Stella Foskett in 1888. She was the daughter of a prosperous farmer. Four children born in Orange have come to bless the home, one of whom has passed on to the heavenly home, and so the snow storms and spring blossoms of life are mingling all the way.

1188

William A.<sup>8</sup> Warden, youngest son of Narcissa<sup>7</sup> [Lucy<sup>6</sup>, Benjamin<sup>5</sup>, Samuel<sup>4</sup>, Benjamin<sup>3</sup>, William<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup> Dexter] Davis and John Warden, was born 2 March, 1852, at Worcester, Mass., and was educated in the public schools of his native city. He left school, however, at the age of 16, and learned the cabinet-maker's trade. In 1872, at the age of 20, he went into the business of manufacturing picture frames, in company with George Nolen. This partnership lasted until 1877, when in company with his brother, John D. Warden, he opened a wholesale and retail crockery and glassware establishment under the firm name of Warden Bros. This business was sold out in 1884, when he went into the real estate business with Willis F. Phelps, the firm name being Warden & Phelps. This business was more congenial to his taste. The firm had under their control several large estates, in addition to doing a regular brokerage business, and in 1889 they added to their business the buying and developing large tracts of suburban property. In this they were quite successful, and some of the beautiful suburbs of Worcester owe their origin to this firm. Scores of beautiful houses have been built by this firm, and sold to people desiring suburban homes.

Mr. Warden was often consulted in regard to value of real estate, and has acted as expert witness in many real estate cases in court. His services were often secured in appraising property for probate purposes, and in settling estates. He has acted as conveyancer in a great many cases. He held commission as justice of the peace, and notary public, under Governors Robinson, Ames, Brackett, Russell, Greenhalge, Wolcott, Crane, Bates and Douglas.

In politics he was always a Republican, and took an active interest in all such matters. He was a member of the ward and city committee of that party for many years, and was inspector of election several terms. He was interested in the no-license campaign, and was treasurer of both city and county committees. His interest in politics led him to attend as a visitor the great national conventions of the Republican party at Chicago, in 1888, and at Minneapolis.

in 1892. He joined the Sunday-school of the Park Street M. E. Church in 1857, and when that church was sold in 1870, he went with the rest to Trinity M. E. Church, and became Secretary and assistant superintendent of the Sunday-school. He joined the church in 1877, and was an active member of all the young people's societies. He was President of the Literary Society, a member of the Official Board of the church for many years, holding office as steward and trustee. He was on the Finance Committee, assistant treasurer, member of the Pulpit Supply and Church Repair Committee. In 1896, when the church was repaired and redecorated, he was chairman of the Decorating Committee. He also had charge of extensive repairs of church in 1905. He twice represented his church at the Lay Electoral Conference, and in 1900 was elected a reserve delegate to the General Conference of the M. E. Church, held at Chicago, Ill. He attended the conference, but was not seated, as his principal was in attendance. He was Secretary for several years of the Worcester M. E. City Mission and Church Extension Society. He was Secretary of the Twentieth Century Thank-Offering commissions from 1899-1901, under whose auspices the church debt of Trinity Church was raised, and was a member of the committee that arranged for the celebration of that event. When the religious census of the city of Worcester was taken in 1903, he was a member of the Executive Committee and formulated the plan which was adopted in dividing the city into districts, and in tabulating the returns, whereby the record of 112,000 people was gathered in five hours. He was connected with the Knights of Pythias and Knights of Malta, a member of Montacute Lodge of Free Masons, Eureka Chapter, Hiram Council, and Worcester County Commandery of Knights Templars. For four years he was Secretary of the Masonic Mutual Relief Association of Central Massachusetts. He was a director of the Young Men's Christian Association.

Mr. Warden spent a large part of his winters for many years in traveling in the South and California, and in visiting all parts of our country and Canada. He was interested in

of practical affairs in which he has taken conspicuous rank. Much of his early life was passed as a farmer and carpenter and, though being compelled to accept these positions, neither of them was congenial to him. Yet until a better opportunity offered, he worked uncomplainingly, but with the determination to change his vocation at the earliest practical moment. In 1855 he entered the grocery store of Joseph Baldwin of Fitchburg, where he worked for $125 a year and board. His eminent business ability, which has shown itself in later years, began to show itself in his new occupation, and he rapidly rose in the appreciation of his employer. He stayed here one year, and although offered more salary, he returned to his native town and entered the general store of Daniel Pomeroy, where he remained three years. In 1859 he succeeded Mr. Pomeroy in the business, which he conducted through the next three years as sole proprietor. During this time, although the financial results had not been large, he had succeeded in establishing a reputation as a business man of ability and integrity, and with the financial assistance of D. E. Cheney and R. E. Carpenter, he was enabled to purchase the grocery store of A. J. Clark. These gentlemen loaned him $2,000 on his own security. He entered upon his new venture with that determination which has since been so clearly shown in his business enterprises, and conducted it with marked success until 1867, when he became a member of the firm of A. F. Johnson & Co., who had recently started, in a small way, the manufacture of sewing machines in Orange. This new enterprise on a wider plan at once afforded him a full scope for his marvelous energy and ability, and there was need of all his resources. His cool and careful judgment was a most necessary adjunct at that experimental stage of the sewing machine business. The product was small, and the trouble about patents was constantly claiming attention, and it required the finest skill and judgment to successfully carry the business through this trying period. The style of machine was several times changed and finally the firm itself was changed to a corporation, bearing the name Gold Medal Sewing Machine Co., and Mr. Wheeler became secretary and treasurer. It continued under this management until 1882, when its name was changed to New Home Sewing Machine Co., and Mr. Wheeler became the Vice-president and Treasurer; in 1898 was elected President as well as Treasurer, and from the beginning he has been the financial manager of the entire industry, whether firm or corporation. When the business started they employed about forty men. The business has rapidly increased until now the establishment employs in the machine and needle department about seven hundred and fifty people, and the daily capacity amounts to nearly five hundred machines and fifty thousand needles. This institution justly ranks among the leading and representative industries of western Massachusetts. Mr. Wheeler has not only been the active head and manager of this large corporation, the duties and details of which are very exacting, but he has also found time to interest himself in every movement tending to advance the interests of Orange. He is President of the Orange National Bank; Leavitt Machine Co.; Boston Mutual Life Insurance Co.; Oregon Securities Co., head office in New York; a director of the Athol & Orange Street Railroad, and trustee in the Orange Savings Bank. Mr. Wheeler married Almira E. Johnson, 9 Oct., 1856; she was the daughter of Daniel and Almira (Porter) Johnson of North Orange.

Mr. Wheeler is a social and genial man prominently identified with the Masonic fraternity. He was one of the founders of the Orange Lodge, was its first Secretary, and afterwards its Treasurer. He is a member of Crescent Royal Arch Chapter, and for several years its Treasurer, and he is also a member of the Orange Commandery of Knights Templars.

Politically, Mr. Wheeler is a Republican, and has ever taken an earnest and active interest in the success of his party. He has held various positions, always discharging his duties with honor to himself and satisfaction to his fellow townsmen. He was town clerk of Orange from 1861 to 1867. In 1864 he was appointed a justice of the peace by Governor Andrew. He was selectman in 1866. In 1876 he represented the First Franklin District in the Legislature, serving upon the Finance Committee. In 1888, he was a delegate from the Eleventh District to the National Republican Convention at Chicago which nominated Harrison and Morton. He was alternate delegate to the National Republican Convention in 1904 which nominated Roosevelt and Fairbanks, and at the election the same year was elected by a large majority as a member of the Governor's Council for 1905, and the following year was re-elected to the same honorable position.

Mr. Wheeler also takes a decided interest in agricultural affairs, and is owner of a beautiful farm near Orange village, called "Grand View." He is a breeder of fine horses and cattle and a lover of good stock generally. In 1891 he was president of the Worcester Agricultural and Mechanical Society of Athol, and in the annual report a high tribute was paid to him for the enthusiasm and interest he manifested in the success of the society. Mr. Wheeler is strongly attached to his native town, and although having traveled extensively throughout our country, he always returns to Orange with increased love for the beautiful town and its people.

The secret of Mr. Wheeler's success is due to his tireless industry, to his promptness, that never failed to meet every financial obligation, however trivial or however large; to his remarkable personal attention to details and to a probity and courage, tempered with caution, which have made him sagacious and successful in a remarkable degree. Cautious and shrewd, a business man of the highest integrity and signal ability, rich in experience, large hearted, of great energy, faithful in all his relations, above fear and beyond reproach,—such are the qualities which have placed Mr. Wheeler in the proud position he occupies among the citizens of Franklin County.

ADDISON BROWN POLAND.

Addison B. Poland, son of Betsey<sup>7</sup> [Betsey<sup>6</sup>, Benjamin<sup>5</sup>, Samuel<sup>4</sup>, Benjamin<sup>3</sup>, William<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup> Dexter] and Simon B. Poland, was born 26 March, 1851, at Winchendon, Mass. When three years old, his parents removed to Millbury, Worcester County, Mass., where he attended the district school until the age of nine, when he was admitted to the high school. Soon afterwards his parents returned to Winchendon, where he finished his high school course, and entered Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn., in the fall of 1868. Leaving college in 1870, on account of impaired eyesight, he soon after engaged in teaching, first as principal of the Ashburnham, Mass., high school, and a year later as principal of the Salisbury, Mass., high school.

In 1873 he began the study of law in Worcester, Mass., but after a few months decided to return to teaching, and became principal of the Day street grammar school in Fitchburg, Mass. In the following year, he resigned from this position to accept the principalship of the Union School and Academy at Hion, N. Y. He remained in charge of this school until September, 1885, when he resigned to become principal of the Jersey City, N. J., high school. Two years later he was made city superintendent of schools of Jersey City and four years later, March, 1891, state superintendent of public instructors of the state of New Jersey. After four years' service as state superintendent, during which time he succeeded in revolutionizing the school laws of the state, he resigned while his term of office had yet two years to run, in order to accept the position of assistant superintendent of schools in New York city, to which he had been unanimously elected. This was the first instance in upwards of a third of a century when any non-resident had been elected school superintendent in New York city, and was therefore regarded as an exceptional honor. After one year of successful service in New York, during which time he assisted in reorganizing the schools under the new charter creating the Greater New York, he resigned, March, 1897, in order to take a much-needed rest.

Returning home in the early part of 1898, after a year of foreign travel, during which time he made with Mrs. Poland a grand tour of the world, he accepted the appointment unanimously offered him of superintendent of schools of Paterson, N. J. After filling this position for nearly three years, he was elected superintendent of schools of Newark, N. J., where he now resides.

In 1876 Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn., conferred upon him the degree of Master of Arts; and in 1890, New York University the degree of Doctor of Philosophy.

Mr. Poland married Fannie Elizabeth Flagg in 1875; she was the daughter of Captain Algernon S. Flagg of Wilbraham, Mass. Two surviving children were born of this marriage: Ethel Elizabeth, born 14 June, 1883, and Edwin Flagg, born 7 June, 1890. In the fall of 1862, while on the bark "Ocean Rover," the vessel with 850 barrels of sperm oil was captured and burned off Western Islands, by Captain Semmer of the privateer "Alabama." All hands were put into the ship's boats and left to shift for themselves. They landed on one of the Western Islands, and later reached Fayal, from which place they were sent to Boston by the American consul. The owners and crew were afterwards remunerated for their loss, out of the $15,000,000 awarded the United States, under the Treaty of Washington.
